

Parks and Recreation conferences help spread great ideas; they represent a great place for parks and recreation professionals to meet others in their industry. Conferences can be a hotbed for networking, allowing organizations to expand their horizons and create an infrastructure that supports their local and state/provincial communities. By congregating in the same place, at the same time, professionals are able to network, attend educational sessions, and see showcases of relevant products and services.

Mark your calendars for August 24th & 25th, 2017, for your next opportunity to learn, network, and grow in the Parks and Recreation profession!

It starts with You!
